Summary of Conclusions

It was agreed that:

- although finding adequate humanitarian aid resources will continue to be a significant challenge, there is no imminent supply crisis. State will report to the Deputies in early December on whether a U.S. appeal to the EC (or other action to encourage donor support) is necessary. (C)
- AID, with the assistance of the CIA and USUN, will examine provision of medical supplies and adequacy of medical facilities in Bosnia, with a view toward improving U.S. and international efforts to deliver medical assistance. AID will also evaluate the possibility of improving delivery through airdrops. (C)

- OSD/JCS will report on the military requirements for providing air support for UNPROFOR pursuant to an EC decision to open a humanitarian corridor from Croatia through Central Bosnia to Sarajevo. The OSD/JCS paper should discuss an air support mission for the Metkovic-Sarajevo road, as well as other corridors through Central Bosnia that may be discussed at the EC summit on October 29. The paper should discuss different rules-of-engagement options for the air support mission and how these options differ from current USG policy on support of UNPROFOR. Finally, Deputies should discuss with Principals whether any consideration should be given to undertaking the opening of such a humanitarian corridor as a NATO operation. (S)
- OSD/JCS, with the assistance of CIA and AID, will assess the current level of airdrops. What is the basis for the current level? Due to lack of access, are there critical and unmet humanitarian needs that could be addressed through increased levels of airdrops? Does the impending winter dictate that we, along with the international community, develop a contingent ability to increase airdrop levels at short notice? (C)
- OVP will attempt to develop an immediate plan to ensure against exhaustion of potable water in Sarajevo, which appears to be an imminent possibility. In particular, OVP will examine how we might ensure delivery of fuel necessary to operate generators that pump water. (C)
- OVP will inquire again with Bosnian officials in New York on their position regarding efforts to urge the Hungarians to cut the fuel pipeline to Belgrade. (S)
- NSC staff, State and OVP will identify carrots and sticks we could use to persuade all parties to cooperate on humanitarian access and, in particular, to respect a new humanitarian corridor if the EC decides to open and operate one. Redman will pursue in discussions with Owen/Stoltenberg and the parties. (C)
- OSD/JCS will examine the possibility and implications of authorizing the USG MASH unit in Zagreb to provide short-term care for small numbers of Bosnians prior to their being moved on to hospitals in Europe and the United States. OSD/JCS should include an implementation plan to permit such care, which should discuss means to limit excessive demands on the facility (such as by imposing numerical limitations, a requirement for rapid "through-put" and appropriate treatment criteria). (C)

Following the meeting, Berger requested additional action on one agenda item that was not discussed, the opening of Tuzla airport. It is requested that OSD/JCS, with the assistance of State, report on the feasibility and advisability of opening the airport in Tuzla, including options that do and do not include the involvement of USG in the opening or operating of the airport.
